630 CUPID OVERPOWERING PAN IN THE PRESENCE OF TWO NYMPHS

11. 11. 0

A pretty little picture. Similar in composition to the well-known etching of this subject by Agostino Carracci (Bartsch, vol. xviii. p. 103, No. 116), where, however, it is reversed, as the two females appear seated on the left hand. The etching is signed and dated, A·C·IN. 1599, with the motto, "Omnia vincit Amor."

A similar picture on a larger scale was contributed by Lord Feversham to the Manchester Exhibition in 1857. No. 317 of the Catalogue.

BONIFAZIO.

634 A Large Holy Family, attended by several saints

The infant Saviour on the lap of the Virgin, who is seated on a raised step, holds a crown over the head of a kneeling female saint, bearing a palm branch; a second female kneels by her side, and a boy angel in the clouds holds out a wreath, which seems to have been prepared for her glorification. Two male saints, one with a cross leaning against a tree, are seated with large books on their knees on the extreme right; St. Elizabeth on the opposite side holds the infant John, who points to the Saviour, having the scroll inscribed "Ecce Agnus Dei" wound round his right arm.

64 in. by 90 in.

637 The Magdalen

A large full-length figure. One hand is raised to her breast, the other rests on a skull. The vase of ointment is placed on the ground.

LUDOVICO CARRACCI.

638 The Holy Family, a small arched picture

The Virgin, seated under a tree, holds the Saviour on her lap. St. John kisses him; Joseph, with a staff, and clad in green and orange, gazes earnestly at them. A lamb, at his feet, looks up towards the Virgin. The colours of her dress are somewhat unusual, consisting of a black mantle over a red garment. The nimbus to the heads is composed of rings not seen in perspective. The sky is broken with blue streaks, in the Venetian fashion.

AGOSTINO CARRACCI.

640 MADONNA AND CHILD WITH ST. JOSEPH

A composition of three figures, life-size. Half-length. There is an expression of weakness in the figure of the infant Saviour as he leans back on the shoulder of the Virgin. The head of Joseph is turned in profile to the right, and with closed eyes as if blind.

Agostino Carracci himself made an etching from this composition. See Bartsch, vol. xxi. p. 155, No. 4. It is inscribed AGOS TINO CARAC CI. INVE.

This picture was sketched by Sir Joshua Reynolds, together with the "Van Dyck" of "Lady Morton and Mrs. Killigrew;" the "Time and Cupid," and Rubens' "Suffer little Children." They are combined on one page in one of Reynolds' sketchbooks purchased by the poet Rogers at the sale of Lady Thomond's property, and after his sale in 1856 transferred to America.

643 Shepherds Journeying to Bethlehem

11. 11. 0

A landscape-scene, with numerous figures and cattle. In the centre, a girl dressed in crimson with white sleeves, mounted on a grey horse, is riding away from the spectator, and seemingly being directed by a Moorish figure under the shadow of some trees. A youth in broad red hat plays the double pipes on the right-hand side, and the Angel appearing to the shepherds may be discerned in the distance.

646 THE ADORATION OF THE MAGI

A small and exquisitely finished picture with many figures in rich dresses. The Virgin on the left side supports the infant Christ standing on the wooden cradle which is placed on a heap of rough square stones The eldest of the three kings, clad in a full mantle of deep crimson embroidered with gold, kneels and offers to the Saviour a handsome agate cup with gold cover. The Moorish king in turban, kneels on the left side, and Joseph stands behind in lavender dress, with benign countenance. Two angels hover above, scattering roses. The glories are indicated with shell-gold, and the long rays encircling the head of the infant have a remarkably soft and delicate effect.

The general effect of this picture, notwithstanding the freedom of its execution, bears a close resemblance to the works of the early Flemish masters, Van Eyck and Memling. The rich brocades contribute very mainly to this impression; but the picture is an excellent example of the degree to which very minute finish may be rendered compatible with general harmony and facility of execution.

There is a corresponding picture to this, in size and beauty, at Althorp. It is by the same master, and represents "The Marriage of St. Catherine."

Dr. Waagen mentions this picture, vol. iii. p. 122

Painted on canvas

CARLO DOLCI.

647 TWO SMALL AND PLEASING PICTURES OF HEADS OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR AND ST. JOHN, the former holding flowers, the latter a cross, with the "Ecce Agnus Dei" scroll twisted round it

The head of the Saviour is similar to a well known picture by the same painter in the Munich Gallery.

14 in. by 12½ in.

CARLO DOLCI.

648 "La Madonna colle Stelle"

6930

The Virgin Mary enveloped in a dark-blue mantle, and with eight golden stars in the faint gold-tinged nimbus, or glory, round her head, looks upward with an expression of intense devotion and resignation. She seems to be kneeling at the foot of the cross. The figure, the size of life, is seen three-quarter length. The general tone is deep and solemn. The background is composed of dark, heavy clouds.

This, the chef-d'œuvre of a very popular painter, has elicited encomiums both from Dr. Waagen, vol. iii. p. 124, and from Passavant, p. 175, who should be remembered as his precursor in investigating the treasures of this country.

IL PRETE GENOVESE.

649 St. Lawrence of Giustiniani of Venice Distributing in Charity, during a Famine, the precious effects, Plate and Vestments belonging to his Church

22.1.0

Sir C. Russell

He is clothed in a deacon's vestment; his right hand grasps a silver candlestick, whilst the other hand seems just delivering the companion-piece of plate to an old woman whose hand is already engaged in supporting it. A monstrance and chalice lie on the table before him. An old man with a staff, on the extreme right, expresses gratitude by his action.

An oblong composition, deep and brown in tone, with shadows resembling Caravaggio, half-length figures, the size of life.

San Lorenzo Giustiniani was born of a noble family at Venice in 1380. He fled from his home and assumed voluntary poverty. Pope Eugenius IV. created him Bishop of Castello, and Lorenzo subsequently became the Patriarch of Venice. He died 1455, and churches were built to his honour; but he was not canonised before 1690, when Alexander VIII., a Venetian also, had mounted the papal throne. 651 THE ADORATION OF THE MAGI

A companion picture to the Adoration of the Shepherds, and equally characteristic of the style of the master. The principal figures wear white dresses. An angel hovers above.

LUCA GIORDANO.

652 THE NATIVITY AND ADORATION OF THE SHEPHERDS

The Virgin and two angels kneel in adoration before the infant Saviour. The ox looks reverently towards the new-born child (in early paintings it is always represented kneeling). The ass also is introduced in the right hand corner.

The style of the composition shows that Luca Giordano had been much influenced by earlier representations of this subject.

LUCA GIORDANO.

653 The Death oe Seneca

64. 1. 0

A large and powerfully coloured picture, with dark shadows and a somewhat cold tone. The philospher, quite bald-headed and naked, sits with his feet in a silver basin. Three persons are occupied in writing down his latest sayings. The right hand youth holds an inkpot, and has his legs crossed. Dr. Waagen, p. 131, speaks of this picture as "of unusual finish for the master." Dr. Passavant also mentions it at p. 175 of his "Kunstreise."

The following lines were written by Prior on a similar picture, which is at Burghley House, the seat of the Marquis of Exeter :—

"While cruel Nero only drains
The moral Spaniard's ebbing veins,
By study worn, and slack with age,
How dull, how thoughtless is his rage!
Heighten'd revenge he should have took;
He should have burnt his tutor's book,
And long have reign'd supreme in vice:
One nobler wretch can only rise;
'Tis he whose fury shall deface
The stoic's image in this piece;
For while unhurt, divine Jordain,
Thy work and Seneca's remain,
He still has body, still has soul,
And lives and speaks, restor'd and whole.

Seneca the philospher, and tutor of the Emperor Nero, was born in Spain. His enormous wealth, and his participation in the knowledge of his master's cruelties, combined to hasten his death. Nero at length sent a message to his old master, A.D. 65, ordering him to die. Seneca directed his veins to be opened, and perished by a lingering death. His last words were taken down by persons called in for the purpose, and were afterwards published. See Tacitus, "Annales," book xv. chap. 61–64.

655 St. Jerome as a Penitent before the Crucifix

His book lies on the ground at his feet, and the crimson Cardinal's hat is placed against the rock under his left elbow, as usual in paintings of this subject. See Mrs. Jameson's "Legends of the Madonna," p. xlix. of Introduction, for explanation of the globe and serpent introduced in pictures of this subject.

The figures are surrounded by angels and angels' heads in clouds and glory. A smaller globe than the one supporting the Virgin appears to the left. This grand composition is one of the most refined productions of the master.

Hart

The original of this picture was formerly in the sanctuary at Loreto, hence the name, from which place it was stolen whilst the French were in possession. The composition is engraved by George Scharf, jun., in woodcut outline, No. 25 of the plates of "Raphael's Holy Families" above referred to.

This picture is mentioned by Passavant in his "Life of Raphael," vol. ii. p. 127. He saw it at Blenheim.

664 The Holy Family, known as "La Belle Jardinière," the original of which is now in the Louvre

The name RAPHA-LO'VR is inscribed on the border of the Virgin's dress behind the staff of St. John. There is no gilding on the picture. The background represents an Italian, and not a Flemish town, as in the picture at Paris.

Passavant saw this picture, and mentions it with praise in his "Life of Raphael," vol. ii., p. 88.

665 The Holy Family, known as the Madonna della Quercia. The Virgin is seated under an oak, and the two children standing on a cradle, Joseph leaning on an architectural fragment behind

The original picture, which formerly belonged to King Charles I., is now at Madrid. A good old copy still remains at Hampton Court. It is described by Passavant, p. 304. A repetition of this composition, known as "La Lucertola," from a lizard introduced upon the sculptured stone, is at Florence. Engraved by G. Scharf, jun., in small outline, No. 36 of the plate of Raphael's Holy Families, in "Kugler's Handbook of Italian Painting."

666 The Virgin and Child and St. John. The Virgin is represented kneeling, and in the act of raising a veil from the sleeping Jesus, whilst the infant St. John, pointing to the Child, turns laughingly round to the spectator

This composition has been frequently repeated, and may be met with in various galleries, at Lord Westminster's, &c. One of the best-known pictures of this subject belonged to Signor Brocca at Milan, and was engraved by Bridi in Longhena's translation of De Quincy's "Life of Raphael." A circular picture of the same composition was in the Orleans gallery.

The original cartoon, by Raphael's own hand, is still preserved in the Accademia delle Belle Arti at Florence, and it is doubtful whether the master himself ever executed any picture from it.

The cartoon is engraved by F. Ravano for the "Galleria dell' Accademia delle Belle Arti di Firenze." Firenze, folio, 1845, tavola 59.

SARACENO.

676 The Death of the Virgin. A small and elaborately painted finished picture in brilliant colouring

This is very probably the picture by Carlo Venetiano (Saraceno), sold at Sir Peter Lely's sale, No. 27, and called "The Blessed Virgin and the Twelve Apostles in a Church." Size, 1 ft. 6 in. by 11 in. See Vertue's edition of the Catalogue, p. 42.

A duplicate of this picture is in the Pinacothek at Munich, No. 592 of the most recent catalogue. Engraved in lithography by Strixner, and by Merkel in line, for "Payne's Galleries of Munich," 4to., vol. ii. p. 28. Engraved by Leclerc in 1619. The large engraving belongs to the series of the Calcographia at Rome.

The masterpiece of Saraceno, according to Nagler, was formerly in the Orleans Gallery; it represents the same subject, and now decorates the chapel of Castle Howard, the seat of the Earl of Carlisle. It corresponds in almost every point, excepting scale, with the pictures at Munich and Blenheim. Waagen, vol. iii. p. 324. The figures are as large as life, and the subject is the Death of the Virgin.

With the exception of the prominent reclining figure of St. Paul, recognised by the book, and the sword at his side, and a bishop behind him clad in mitre and mantle, holding a pastoral staff, all the saints wear the white garments belonging to the Camaldolese Order. The yellow mantle of the Virgin is supported by two boy-angels, and on each side of her kneel two saints—the one holding a sword, the other with a golden pitcher or wine vessel, placed on the cloud which supports him. This figure may possibly represent St. Benedict. Below him appears St. Anthony of Padua, bearing lily and cross, and at the feet of St. Paul another saint deserves attention for the peculiar manner in which the thumbs of the folded hands are crossed over one another. Behind the group of the Virgin and Child is a rich yellow glory, whilst the grey clouds at her feet merge harmoniously into a deep blue sky, so as to set off the rich transparent tones of crimson and green, peculiar to St. Paul, to the greatest advantage.

685 St. Nicholas of Bari and St. Catherine. Two figures from the celebrated "Gloria" of Titian, now preserved in the Picture Gallery of the Vatican

The original painting was executed for the church of San Niccolò dei Frari at Venice, and was removed to Rome during the pontificate of Clement XIV.

See Bunsen's "Beschreibung der Stadt Rom," vol. ii., part 2, p. 430; and also the recent Florentine edition of Vasari, by Le Monnier, vol. xiii. p. 26. It is engraved by Cunego, and also by F. Pagliuolo in Pistolesi's "Vaticano," vol. vi. tav. 74.

St. Catherine holds the palm-branch of martyrdom, and rests her foot on a portion of the spiked wheel, which is her usual emblem. This emblem is not clearly indicated in Cunego's line-engraving, but it is very distinct in the old contemporary woodcut of Andrea Andreani.

Dr. Waagen mentions this picture, vol. iii. p. 125, under the erroneous denomination of "Pope Gregory and a female Saint."

691 THE ANNUNCIATION. A small picture. The Virgin is seated at a table with a book on it: a dove and a cat lie on the ground at her feet

The action of the figures is greatly exaggerated. The angel, clad in heavy drapery, soars, in accordance with the taste of Michael Angelo, without wings. The style of the picture is between Battista Franco and Goltzius. The attitude of the Virgin corresponds exactly with a study for this subject by Michael Angelo among the Lawrence Drawings. MINIATURES.

1. 1- 870 MARGARET TUDOR QUEEN OF SCOTLAND, sister to King Henry VIII. of England, born 1489; died 1541. Crimson and yellow head dress, and black veil falling behind; crimson bodice and blue background. Oval Gall

3 13 6 871 MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS. An oval, with blue background. Face turned to left, eyes looking at spectator: a broad white ruff coming close to chin, black veil falling behind; a jewelled chain round neck, and a gold jewelled chain festooned in front of her black stomacher do

11. 11 0 872 MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS. Oval. With open ruff and a black cap, with lace on each side; face seen nearly full, and very similar to Dr. Mead's miniature, engraved by Houbraken, and now in the Royal Collection. Inscribed at the back "Mary Queen of Scots." L^d Tweeddale

21 873 MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS. A copy of the miniature by Isaac Oliver in the Royal Collection, and formerly the property of Dr. Mead. It was engraved by Houbraken, in Birch's Illustrious Heads. The face is seen in three-quarters view, turned to the left Gall

874 Mary Queen of Scots. Of an oval shape, turned lengthways or horizontally, with blue background, and inscribed upon it in gold letters—

MARIA*REGINA*SCOTORUM.

The face is turned to the right; a black veil falls behind, and a white fur tippet encircles her neck, within which a necklace but no ruff is visible. Her black dress is striped with white fur

This miniature belongs to the type of Mary portraits engraved in mezzotint by J. Simon; and, as Granger observes, vol. i. page 223, it is a very different face from the portrait in St. James's.

875 Mary Queen of Scots. A modern copy of the preceding, but placed in a differently turned oval

876 Francis I. King of France, wearing a black cap and white feather, with gold ornament in it. An oval, with blue background

877 Henry II. King of France, in armour, or a grey and gold dress —an oval, with dull blue background. Engraved at the back "Henry 2 of France."

878 Henry Wriothesley Earl of Southampton, K.G., the patron of Shakspeare: an oval, painted by Peter Oliver—signed P. O., in gold letters to the left of his ruff. The Blue Ribbon of the Garter hangs round his neck

879 Marie de Medicis. An oval, with blue ground. Wearing a broad widespread ruff of white lace; her dress, of black and orange stripes, has a row of white bows upon the left shoulder. A red coral ornament is at the top of the stomacher, and seems connected with her pearl necklace; the earring has a pearl hanging to it

880 Marie de Medicis. A similar portrait

881 Gabrielle d'Estrées. An oval, with blue ground, large circular ruff and black dress; her light hair is edged with pearls. No. 9.

882 Arabella Stuart. Oval miniature, with blue background, painted upon paper; her ruff, or rather high-standing collar curved back, is similar to Janet's portrait of Mary Queen of Scots in the Royal Collection. The jewels on her white dress are painted crimson on a gold ground; the pearls are silvered. Her face is seen in three-quarters, turned to the left, looking at the spectator.

883 The Queen of Bohemia, daughter of James I., in a fancy dress of blue and yellow, with feathers of various colours falling over her long dark hair. Oval, with dark brown background.

884 Gerard Honthorst, painter to the Queen of Bohemia.

885 Cardinal Mazarin. An enamel miniature in silver gilt filigree frame. Inscribed on the gold plate at the back "Cardinal Julius Mazarine, born 14th July, 1602, died 9th March 1661."

887 James Francis Edward Stuart, the Old Pretender; born 1688, died 1765. A very small miniature.

888 Clementina Sobieski, his wife. A companion miniature.

889 John Dryden the Poet. An oval of rather large size, inscribed at the back "Mr. Dryden."

890 Queen Anne. A rather large oval miniature, delicately painted in water colours. Her dark brown hair is entirely without ornament. Her dress a pale scarlet lined with ermine, and the jewel of the Order of the Garter hangs in front by a broad pale blue ribbon. The face turned towards the left.

891 Louis XV. as a boy, attired in the blue mantle powdered with fleurs-de-lis, over a suit of steel armour. The blue ribbon of the Saint Esprit passes under his left arm. Half-length figure in upright oval.

892 FRANCIS MARQUIS OF TAVISTOCK, son of John fourth Duke of Bedford, born Sept. 26, 1739, and father of Francis fifth Duke of Bedford. He died of an accident whilst hunting, March 22, 1767. A small miniature, in pale scarlet coat, with white buttons. Name engraved at the back. Renton

893 GODFREY OF BOULOGNE. Mill

894 OVAL MINIATURE, with dull blue ground, of a foreigner, with dark brown hair, moustaches and close cut beard, wearing a small ruff, in black and gold dress, and a white cross hanging by a black ribbon round his neck. The complexion is sallow, and his eyeballs pale grey. Gall

895 PORTRAIT OF A GENTLEMAN, with fair complexion, light crisped hair, moustaches and imperial; a falling ruff of very fine white lace, and a pink-brown band across his black dress. Painted by John Hoskins, as seen by the golden letters I. H. upon the grey background to the right of the head. Renton

897 A LARGER OVAL PORTRAIT OF A YOUNG MAN, with thick and very dark brown hair, smooth chin, black dress and small white turn-down collar. Looking towards the spectator over his right shoulder. Painted on paper in modern water-colour style. Gall

898 UNFINISHED MINIATURE ON VELLUM OF A YOUNG MAN at the commencement of the 17th century: his hair hangs down over his left shoulder. It is principally painted in sepia. Interesting as indicating the technical process adopted at that period. Colnaghi

899 MINIATURE PORTRAIT OF A NOBLEMAN, in Coronation robes of the first half of the 18th century. Gall

900 UNKNOWN PORTRAIT OF A LADY. A small oval miniature. Renton

901 PORTRAIT OF A LADY UNKNOWN. Costume of the period of Catherine de Medicis. Lord Tweeddale

902 Enamel. Unknown Portrait of an Elderly Gentleman, in long grey wig and rich purple mantle. The reflected lights on the countenance admirably rendered. Probably enamelled by Boit.

903 Enamel. Unknown Portrait of a Gentleman, with dark brown hair and eyes, no beard, and wearing black dress and a white collar.

904 Portrait of a Lady, seemingly of the Austrian Imperial family, with fair complexion, wearing black lace cap and dress. The hair entirely concealed.

905 Portrait of a Gentleman, in brown wig with very thin moustaches. The countenance like Charles II., but more probably one of the Austrian Imperial family.

906 Enamel Portrait of a Lady, in white dress with blue mantle, light hair and brown eyes.

907 Portrait of a Young Lady, in water colours, with light brown hair and large blue-grey eyes, lilac dress and white mantle.

909 Enamel. Portrait of a Gentleman, in a full curly wig and brown dress

910 Gertrude, Duchess of Bedford, in blue dress, with a tight-fitting necklace of pearls

911 Portrait of a Little Girl, with yellow sleeves and light-grey bodice

MINIATURES OF HISTORICAL AND FANCY SUBJECTS.

912 A Concert. A small copy in water-colours of a picture by Titian, now in the National Gallery. The original was formerly in the collection of King Charles I., having been purchased by that monarch from Mantua in 1630. It is mentioned as a "Music Party" in Van der Doort's Catalogue of the King's pictures. The nation purchased it of Mr. Angerstein in 1824.

913 TITIAN'S VENUS, with landscape background. An oval in water-colours. In frame, with ivory back carved with Diana and Endymion. 13. 13. 0 Vivian

916 THE MAGDALEN, with long hair and naked body, in a rocky cavern, resting her cheek on her right hand, with upturned countenance. Her left hand is laid upon a skull, which lies upon a brown wooden cross. Rays of light break through clouds over her head. Apparently a copy from some Italian original by D. Feti. Carefully finished in water-colours upon ivory. 7. 17. 6 Mills

918 COPY IN WATER-COLOURS OF A LANDSCAPE, by Gaspar Poussin. 2. 12. 6 McDonald

919 ESTHER FAINTING BEFORE AHASUERUS. A small circular enamel in very bright colours. 4 Davis

920 DIANA AND HER NYMPHS SURPRISED BY ACTÆON. A copy in water-colours upon ivory, after Poelemberg. 14. 3. 6 Philpot

921 TENIERS. A LANDSCAPE, with three figures prominent to the left, standing in front of a house. A church spire in distance to the right. A copy in water-colours. 15. 15 Davis

922 ENAMEL. LANDSCAPE AND SEA-PORT, with fortress, ships, and distant mountains, within a fanciful border. 11. 11. Gall

923 THE INFANT ST. JOHN HOLDING A CROSS. A water-colour drawing in rich brown tone. 11. 11. Lord Crewe

CARVINGS IN IVORY, Etc.

924 Peter Paul Rubens. An alto-relief in ivory, nearly full face. Inscribed P. P. Rubens.

925 Pietro Cort. An alto-relievo carving. Face seen in full. A pendant to the Rubens medallion.

926 Leda and the Swan. An alto-relievo ivory carving. Figures full length.

927 Venus and Cupid. The sun rising from the ocean to the left. An alto-relievo carving. Figures full length.

928 Ivory Bas-relief of a Bearded Satyr. Face seen in profile to the right, pointing to his teeth with left hand and resting the other on the pandæan or reed pipes. He is crowned with ivy, and has pointed ears. Half-length figure.

929 Ivory Carving in Alto-relievo, representing Mercury playing Argus to sleep. The cow into which Io had been transformed, and over which Argus (with his hundred eyes) was to keep watch, is seen in the distance between them. Of circular shape.

930 Ivory Alto-relief, from the Celebrated Borghese Statue of the Hermaphrodite lying on a Mattress.

931 Ivory Carving in Alto-relievo of a Drinking Party, after Brauwer or Teniers. The man to the left is seated in a chair made out of a large tub.

933 Antique Cameo. A layer of reddish brown upon a bed of transparent agate. Subject: Minerva overcoming a winged monster, with double tail-like serpents. Finely sculptured.

934 WINGED VICTORY, IN A QUADRIGA OR CHARIOT OF FOUR HORSES, DRIVING TO THE RIGHT. An Oynx Cameo of four layers, the deepest forming a black background. The front horse a deep-brown colour. Victory holds a wreath. Coloured stones are introduced in the upper part of the gold mounting. 110. 5. 0 Whelan

935 AN IVORY CARVING, mounted on crimson velvet, of a female seated upon a lion, holding something like a cornucopia. 9. 9 Roskell
